WHAT:

ROSE GROUP INTERNATIONAL (RGI):

- Organizational culture is the foundation of successful companies and their initiatives. We are the only problem-solving and business performance consultancy designed for executives to ensure people are prioritized and work gets done.
- Unlike other boutique consulting firms, we have a distinct and repeatable method based on published research that has been refined through years of successful engagements.

CULTURE TYPE ASSESSMENT:

- CTA is a workplace-oriented method to quantify work preferences of individuals on a team. The system employs a novel and updated perspective, based on published research underpinning established management and personnel theory and has been refined over years of successful engagements.
- CTM is unlike older personality typing systems, which have not kept pace with business's need for team-oriented and quickly-employable methods. Further, RGI ensures your team is ready for success with tools and methods to use CTA results effectively and immediately.

KURTZ CHANGE TRANSITION MODEL:

- KCTM assesses an organization's individualized appetite for change, based on the culture types of its people.
- Unlike other change management frameworks that assume that change creates an unavoidable and costly disruption period (the classic "U-shaped curve"), KCTM teaches your leaders how to embrace the unique opportunity for innovation created by change, and decrease the negative energy spent on fretting change.

HOW:

- RGI offers packages for board room, executive, director and team leader levels and well as development workshops for mid-level and frontline supervisors.
